K-Gr 2â "A concise and appealing introduction to the internal framework of humans and various animals. Beginning with an explanation of the function and purpose of bones, the book continues with facts about bone growth, and the varieties of bones that are found in many different species. Students will especially enjoy the color illustrations of people and animals, featuring an overlay of their skeletons. Comparisons among human and other animal species' skeletons are fascinating. Those looking for more information about the anatomy and physiology of the human skeleton will benefit from such titles as Jody Sullivan Rake's The Human Skeleton (Capstone, 2009) and Louise Spilsbury's The Skeleton and Muscles (Heinemann, 2008).â "Lauren M. Shelley Rotner brings a depth of experience and knowledge to her books with a diverse background as an elementary school teacher, museum educational specialist and UNICEF photographer. She is an award winning author and photo-illustrator of over twenty books. She lives in Northampton, Massachusetts. David A. White is an illustrator, cartoonist, toy creator, and video game artist with a passion for giant robots. He lives in Easthampton, Massachusetts.

The story is engaging with great pictures. This goes along really well with teaching bones and safety in 3rd grade and comparing and contrasting our bones to animal bones.

I teach 4th grade, and this book goes perfectly with our FOSS "Human Body" Science Kit. It compares and contrasts human and animal skeletons in such a beautiful way. My class was so engaged with this read-aloud!
