Llama Llama Mad At Mama

Synopsis

Yucky music, great big feet. Ladies smelling way too sweet. Look at knees and stand in line. Llama Llama starts to whine. "Does any child like to go shopping? Not Llama Llama! But Mama can't leave Llama at home, so off they go to Shop-O-Rama. Lots of aisles. Long lines. Mama is too busy to notice that Llama Llama is getting m-a-d! And before he knows it, he's having a full-out tantrum! Mama quickly calms him down, but she also realizes that they need to make shopping more fun for both of them. Parents and children are sure to recognize themselves in this fun-to-read follow-up to the popular Llama Llama Red Pajama. Watch a Video

PreSchool-K • In this sequel to Llama Llama Red Pajama (Viking, 2005), the hoofed protagonist goes shopping with his mother. Gradually the small annoyances of the Shop-O-Rama ("Yucky music,/great big feet./Ladies smelling way too sweet....Try it on and take it off./Pull and wiggle,/itch and cough") send the youngster into a tantrum: "It's no fun at Shop-O-Rama./Llama Llama/MAD at Mama!" With admirable patience and parenting skills, Mama tames the "llama drama," explaining to her son that they can make the chore fun by working together. Soon Llama

Llama is helping Mama clean up the messy results of his meltdown and complete their purchases, and then they are off to pursue more pleasurable activities. Children will giggle at Dewdney's rhythmic rhymes. The inviting, oversized paintings are bold and colorful, and Llama Llama's priceless expressions carry the emotional arc of the story to its gentle conclusion. Anna Dewdney was a teacher, mother, and enthusiastic proponent of reading aloud to children. She continually honed her skills as an artist and writer and published her first Llama Llama book in 2005. Her passion for creating extended to home and garden and she lovingly restored an 18th century farmhouse in southern Vermont. She wrote, painted, gardened, and lived there with her partner, Reed, her two daughters, two wirehaired pointing griffons, and one bulldog. Anna passed away in 2016, but her spirit will live on in her books.

I love Anna Dewdney and I miss her already. I bought these books for my daughter 12 years ago and have gifted them to every child for baby showers, birthdays, holiday presents, ANY TIME I can. These will be a BIG hit if you buy them. I just love them.

I love the Llama's book but didnt like this one, I didnt like the fact that baby Llama went crazy on the store and empty the card! it gave ideas to my 2 years old

We love the story, it is perfect for my daughter, my shopping buddy who is right at the age of major meltdowns. We read it daily. My book arrived in terrible condition though, gently worn turned out dirty and bent, with several pages ripped nearly in half. I'll need to pay better attention to the rankings on used book sellers and conditions next time.

So appropriate for a child to know that ALL children have times of getting mad at Mama; and teaches them that Mama always loves them!

I love the Llama Llama books and so does my daughter. This is a great one to add to the collection especially for the terrible twos.

My son loves this book. He even tries to read it to me (he is currently 3). He calls it Llama, Llama Mean at Mama. It is engaging and he really likes the pictures of all the food going everywhere and says "crash!." Good 'teaching' book about how to behave while shopping though at times it can be frustrating.

My daughter loves all the Llama Llama books. She likes the rhythmic writing style, and likes this book because, although this may surprise many parents, my 4 year old daughter isn't always happy with me, so she can relate to this book, but it has a good message saying that we're a team even when we're both feeling frustrated and impatient - it's always better to be in it together.

One of our fav books. Even helped me in the grocery store recently. Told my 3 year old he was acting like Llama Llama and he stopped trying to act up!
