Alvin Schwartz is known for a body of work of more than two dozen books of folklore for young readers that explores everything from wordplay and humor to tales and legends of all kinds. His collections of scary stories •Scary Stories to Tell in the Dark, More Scary Stories to Tell in the Dark, Scary Stories 3, and two I Can Read books, In a Dark, Dark Room and Other Scary Stories and Ghosts!•are just one part of his matchless folklore collection. Karen Ann Weinhaus earned a B.F.A. degree from Boston Museum School and Tufts University and worked as a children's book designer in New York City for several years. In addition to having illustrated Alvin Schwartz's There is a Carrot in My Ear and Other Noodle Tales, she is the artist for many popular books including Poem Stew, edited by William Cole, and Samson Svenson's Baby by Sheila Moore. Ms. Weinhaus lives with her family in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

These stories are so silly. My little ones giggle all the way through. Even my 5 yo who "doesn't like reading" (his words not mine) will read this to himself when he doesn't think I'm watching.

I love this book. I bought it for my kids 25 years ago, it was always one of their favorites. I always keep a copy on hand to give as a gift.

My four year old loved this book from the library, so I bought it. He is learning to read and can recognize most of the words. He also understands the humor, his favorite story is about Sam and Jane camping out.

good

Great fun for beginning readers of all ages! Mr. Brown washes his underwear is the favorite!

Noodle tales are the best. Also look for noodles counting noses.

My daughter really enjoyed reading this book.

I had this book when I was a kid. I was SO happy when I found it!
